

MAY 2018

Did you know?

For the past week, I have been working on an upcoming event that will take place on Sayre School's campus in July. It is an annual convention of stitchers from England; The Royal School Of Needlework.

They choose a different U.S. city every year. They will be here for two weeks, learning the art of hand embroidery, while enjoying Lexington. I have been composing menus, determining my staffing levels, and projecting our costs. It takes me back to my days of being the banquet chef at The Hyatt Regency Hotel. Convention after convention; catered breakfasts, lunches, dinners, receptions...

This week, it has been re-enforced upon me why I enjoy working at Sayre!
